I know it's early to be thinking about a WW mini-jam for this year, but I just wanted to toss it out there to plant the seed. I really enjoyed last year's mini-jam (even though the fishing pretty much sucked). What are the chances the fishing could suck two years in a row?!?!?

At any rate, just wanted to get people thinking about it even though it's a few months away. Fishidiot did a wonderful job last year acting as the unofficial guide and I met a lot of great people (even that Sighnymph guy...).

There are a lot of possible locations to host this event, but must admit that I was happy with the Juniata's access and floatability.
