I have it and carry it opposite my gink.

However, I never use it and would never buy it again. The downside...I'll have this bottle forever (too cheap to throw it away).

I think spit or a quick dunk at your feet is all that's needed to get the air out of a nymph or streamer.

I think tying/buying weighted flies or using shot is a thousand time better than xink.

side note: to are going to spend the time to dunk your fly to get the air out, use your fingers to squeeze it out. Or else your fly will just sit on the surface.
