Ok,

scrap the eagleclaw.

are you going to fish this rod for bass/steel/trout??

if so, get a 9' 6 wt., despite what the majority on this board think, you can cast small dries with some practive and finesse, and you'll have the backbone for some steelhead/bass.

you can't beat cabelas three forks rod or the other combos they have for beginners.. all under a 100 dollars for rod, reel, and line.
