Its funny, I actually have no issue with the line, except for where a few hunks fell out.. I've also kept that line in generally good shape, but its now being reduced to fulltime car duty.

I guess I just pound on it harder than I realized. Also, the worst damage is isolated to about 20' in the middle, I need to pull line out and see just where that hangs to figure out what did it.

I now must refuse to retire this line because I'm contrary.

Wonder if SA would refund me, though. That's not a bad thought at all...
