

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Simple repair for cracked-in-half fly line?

Re: Simple repair for cracked-in-half fly line?

Author: : nymphingmaniac

Date: : 2011/4/14 10:25:48

URL:

I agreed mike. The line ages even more quickly if you like to strip streamers and throw heavy nymph rigs. I should probably replace mine every year, but I am too cheap and do so every other year because I fish three lines- mostly two different ones.

I stand by my comments. a 10.00 line does not match the quality of a 30-50.00 line.

I noticed you said "I'm using it to find what line weight to use on a rod I built on an unlabeled blank"

I didn't see a reference to you taking it with you on that weekend trip to remote location and using it regularly on the stream.