

---

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Where to buy Bass Poppers??

Re: Where to buy Bass Poppers??

Author: : TimMurphy

Date: : 2011/4/16 10:02:46

URL:

Quote:

gfen wrote:

If you're tying from packed hair, two tips:

- 1) Trash receptical: All that deer hair is goign to make a HUGE mess.
- 2) Safety razors: You know, the old kind you cut your coke with.. Think Judas Priest's British Steel cover. Snap in half, cut popper. It'll go through like butter and you can flex it to get those nice curves.

I've tied a few, they never look quite as nicely laid out as DJ's because I'm too lazy, and gurglers tie easier. :)

Dear gfen,

Good idea on the safety razor tip but I'd caution against snapping it in half and suggest simply covering one half of the blade with duct tape. That way you have a little more of a tool to work with and you save half of it for later use without the opportunity to accidently lose half of it..

I am assuming that by a safety razor you are refering to the "old school" double edged razor blades? The ones where you had to twist the shaft of the razor to open the top to drop in a new blade? Those are the type I am talking about.

Regards,

Tim Murphy 😊