If you do decide to try guiding, don't be one of those that consider their clients necessary nuisances to pay for their[guides] fishing. I have hired a few of those. One back of the boated me so he could get first cast in. Not a happy outing.

haha but we should support local fly shops? Basically the same thing going on in some, not all.

In all seriousness, for anyone looking to become a guide, sweetwater river travel is your best bet in terms of reliability for job placement and the cost is lower than Orvis certification. 2,000 for 1.5 weeks I believe.

To be a successful guide in Pa... you gotta strike some luck and be at the top of your game not with just fishing, but your people/marketing skills as well.
