My first book was Trout Fishing, by Joe Brooks (1972). Still have it in very nice condition. I got it from the Outdoor Life book club. Remember the old "get 8 books for $1" deal?

I recently came across this book while browsing an antique store with my wife. And with a $5 price tag, had to buy it.

It is a very good read - and after almost 40 years, still has a lot of useful info.

I was kinda surprised to find him recommending that newbies to fly fishing should start out with dry flies. I completely agree with him on that. That is how I got hooked on FF, and have gotten quite a few other people started into it fishing drys only.
