

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Redington or Simms?

Re: Redington or Simms?

Author: : nymphingmaniac

Date: : 2011/4/27 8:07:17

URL:

Tuna,

be fair and tell everyone how many times you get out! I thought I got out a lot until we communicated on another forum about this. I'm jealous, he fishes more than a pro guide!

The vibram soles, by their very nature, will wear down. If they made them with tougher materials they would be as stiff and heavy as 2x4s. Soles separating etc, again, how many hours have you had on them.

Again, IMO when simms (or other high end gear) leaks or fails the story is told 10 times over, but when a cabelas/bean/frogg togs cheapos do, it rarely makes it past the owner or his/her closest friends. It's human nature.

Customer service issue: I can't comment. I haven't had a problem and needed to send it back.