

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Zebra Midge

Re: Zebra Midge

Author: : dryflyguy

Date: : 2007/12/13 15:52:51

URL:

I've never fished with zebra midges, but I think that they imitate a black midge.

I tie and used a very simple dry pattern for that hatch called a sewer fly. It's just black thread body with a tiny tuft of poly post for the wing. A tiny parachute hackle tied around the post is optional, but I don't think it's really needed on a fly that small.

I tie these in sizes #20 down to #32