

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Anybody Ever Fished A Cicada Fly?

Re: Anybody Ever Fished A Cicada Fly?

Author: : albatross

Date: : 2011/5/12 12:07:01

URL:

I think it took the trout a little while to lose their fear of the big ugly things and learn they were good food. There were high expectations that we would be fishing cicadas at the jamboree in late May of 2008, but the fish didn't cooperate. It was the beginning of the emergence and the fish hadn't keyed on them yet.

I only got one magical day fishing cicadas that summer, but it was unforgettable. I used a green deerhair imitation that is designed to match the New Zealand bug, but the fish didn't care.

Attach file:

clarkscicida.jpg (32.17 KB)

MILLERSEFLYSHOP.COM

CLARK'S CICADA