I have seen the gas well that the water is going to be pumped to. unlike most of the well sites in the area, this one is located down in the valley on what probably was once a farmers field. You can see it close up. It is located right next to rt. 973 North East of the village of Tombs Run. I have a photo of the rig that I will post. Down the road a little way, you can see the water pipe line that they are running above ground. It kind of looks like a smaller version of the Alaskan pipe line.
