Gave it a run again tonight, because I could. Its amusing, but I'll probably give up 'til summer.

Its oddly fun to chuck flies in pitch black because its all about feel, but I'm not going anywhere but the local park 'coz I'm not going to undertake night wading. :) Almost had to, though, just as I was telling myself how well I could throw the full length of line with the rod, the top two sections flew off into the dark. Thankfully, the hook caught 'em.

One fish to a hook with half a turkey's worth of marabou on it, so hey, it works.
