"The Bright Stream of Memory" by G. Bucknall, 1997 Swan Hill Press. This one is on my once-a-year reading list. The late Bucknall was a British angling historian who, in this book, synthesizes the great flyfishing debates which occurred in the pages of the Fishing Gazette around the turn of the last century. His writing style is conversational and friendly and very enjoyable - like Gordon or Bergman. A passing interest or a background in the players and controversies might increase your pleasure with this one, or the book might stimulate a desire to learn more.
