No, I was completely serious. I find the beach to be terminally boring, so if I can maximize my amusement, I will. This means that while the family goes, I just soak bait and try to keep myself as amused as possible.

I'll just be replicating your setup, adjusting for surf and weight. I noticed that regardless of what people say, I seem to have the best luck after noon hightide, but again, I don't really care to target "sportfish" and just like to feel things tug.
