Here is a part of my fly fishing arsenal that I know I need some work on. I can cast forwards and back, roll cast, double haul (kind of), water haul and toss in some curves. I know that in air mends can help, especially after watching Dave R. cast at the JAM, but mends during the drift are a place I'm sure I need improvement. I do them, and get some results, but I know there are many and specific situations to use them. So go for it, teach me ohh wise ones about mending.
