I like Sage and I have a couple of their rods but I won't ever pay full price for one. all of these new rods just seem too "fast" for me. I know that its personal preference but I just like to feel the rod load a little more. The only exception is a stick for bigger species like steelhead. I don't mind those a little faster.

The good thing about these companies coming out with new rods every 6 months is there should be a good bit of discounted stock out there.
