Discounted so low for a custom (which range between 520-560.00 before) makes sense.
The custom rod builders out there who have a few in inventory can't be happy.

I've often toyed with the idea of buying a custom rod. The uncertainty of repairs made me hesitate.
I almost pulled the trigger on a custom Z about a year ago. I liked the idea that I could select larger guides.
