The main way i keep focus on my fly is your the 1 giving it action. Your the 1 manipulating the line and rod in a manner that makes your fly move in a wouned or fleeing action. The cast you day dream or have a brain fart might be the 1 you have a fallow you dont see or a strike you miss. Trust me river musky are like ghosts. They drift in and out of sight so smoothly and quickly and leave ya wondering if ya really saw something. You gotta be aware of your fly and whats going n around it as much as you can.

I've got caught up b.s. with my friends and missed 2 strikes so far. Just because of a lose of focus. It will happen. You cant be " on the clock "everycast of every minute you fish. This is the mind game.
