Yeah this happens to everyone now and again. You aren't paying attention just for a split second and bam you miss a strike. They are probably the sneakiest fish that I have ever had the chance to fish. The mind game for sure is exactly like Paco says. You have to be paying attention at all times which can be hard. It's not a day on the water with the boys talking and gabbing all the time. It's mostly complete silence because everyone is concentrating.
