I have a hard time thinking an Allen drag system will hold up.

I'll let you know the first week of august, because I am going to beat the ever loving piss out of that thing on my trip. It's on my 6wt and slated for full time streamer duty.

The allen drag (post-defective bearing replacement) seems good enough. It smoothly handled a delaware rainbow in big water, but the bighorn and yellowstone will be the true test.
