Hello Bob,

I do have a orvis frequent flyer in an 8 wt I am thinking about getting the TT ambush for it In 8 wt.

I have yet to play w leaders with the new line. I am thinking of putting a furled leader of my make on it to soften the landing a little. I was able to get it to land softly but the line is not very forgiving if you misjudge a little. I found allow it to fall from about 2 foot off the water and it does ok. It is tough to get it to do that. Plus it is impossible to mend this line if its is out farther than 25 foot. It is basically a shooting head attached to running line.

Got any good ideas on leader length/design to help it land softly. If one line will do it I don't want to buy two.:)

Thanks,

Greg
