I am one of the few in the category of "I like big eggs and I can not lie". I tie a bunch of size 10's for steelhead. I know a bunch of guys who will tie down to size 20, but that's ridiculous if you ask me. I use 10's and if no takers then I'll use 14's. If the action is hot then the 10's are moving a ton of fish. If it's an average to below average day then I'll downsize. Mine are probably the size of a typical marble. Check out the blog from the fall on this site. I did a step by step on my egg pattern. More durable too.
