

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Susquehanna, nice day but no fish!

Re: Susquehanna, nice day but no fish!

Author: : RustyRat

Date: : 2008/1/15 15:42:58

URL:

Not sure anyone is still following this thread but I'm curious as to how the smallmouth fishing on the Susquehanna fares throughout the state. My experience on the river is primarily on the southern end (Harrisburg south to Wrightsville). The fishing has been rather poor in this section and I realize from reading other posts and some news reports that this is the result of a number of things that have hit this watershed over the past few years.

But I'm also seeing it on the Potomac. What has the smallmouth fishing been like north of the Susquehanna river section (ex: Bloomsburg, The Juniata, etc.) over the past few years?