Wow thats a nice fish!!!

One of my favorite things about fly fishing is being able to hit the vice and try different species. And I'm sure I'm not alone in wanting to try for Muskie. I know some spin guys that have caught them on the Lehigh River near the hamilton dam...I doubt this is "numbers" water though...

It looks like a nice reward after a lot of hard work...can you quantify a lil more? (...like you get a hook up every X time you fish)

Is there a particular time of day that best?

Sorry for all the questions, I'm just trying to think if this is even close to a reality for me, if I have time to grind it out etc...if not, I should stop day dreaming and get back to work. haha
