It's a great first attempt, I also think the hook's a little small, and I like my eyes a little closer to the eye, those are the only issues I see, but they're more personal preference, that fly is definitely fishable. I tie mine the way Bob Clouser does, so mine look a little different than most of the fly shop ones, but when it comes to tying flies, everyone has their own preferences, Keep at it and find the way you like them to look.
