Those are some realistic patterns in my opinion. I tried to just tie up a quick one for my first one and heres what came out. Also i tried just tieing in the legs under the wire like you said tom and it worked out i suppose. The reason the legs are probably too far back on the stone is because i wanted to tie in 2 of them but it was just getting too hard to hold the other ones back and stuff so i gave up on the front legs and just left them there. My next pattern i think ill try to get the hard shell looking wing case type of thing on it.

EDIT: Ahh the antennas, knew i forgot something
