Well those who have been on the board for a while know I'm a steelhead nut. The last 2 years have been a bit disappointing but hopefully things will turn around this year.

Here's a good thread (going strong for 2 years now) that will get the fall chrome juices flowing. Good for a steelhead beginner or the avid chromer.

The days are already growing a bit cooler and steel will be here before you know it. Feel free to look through this whole post to get some good ideas for steelhead flies.
