Yeah, I ordered mine through FFP. They have some in stock all the time. If they don't have them customized how you want, you can order through them and they'll take care of everything, even have it delivered to your door when done. It is nice, when ordering, to be able to actually see the various options in person instead of choosing from a website sight unseen. I don't think going through FFP changed the price at all.

Backlog was a few months if I recall, I'm sure it varies a lot though.
