Tim,

I wasn't commenting on the original intent of the post, which is the privatization of the park. I was adding input to the few posts above mine which talked about charging entrance/usage fees (controlled by the state) for these parks. I'm against the privatization of any publicly owned state property. That is a slippery slope we don't want to go down. I am not against the charging of an entrance/usage fee if that is what it takes to keep the parks in the hands of the state and ultimately keeps it belonging to the people.
