Wild Tiger,

Paraphrasing a note on their website, yes, one partner has dropped out. The remaining partner will continue to make them out of his house, which is how it was done for many years. During the transition, newly placed orders may take longer to fill. But they are taking orders.

Steve's usually pretty up to date on these kind of happenings, so it may have been up in the air when you talked to him and a settled matter now.

I see both the Richardson and the Downs as similar and excellent products. I couldn't live without a chest box, honestly, it was the best FF purchase I ever made. Most people either love em or hate em, there doesn't seem to be any in between. I, obviously, love em.
