Jake, There is no doubt about it... September should be a great high water month on the system. I'll betcha right now, NYC wishes they had released a bit more water throughout July. By the looks of it they could have released 1000 cfs all July and still been in great shape (and alleviated potential flooding down river)...

Oh well, bottom line - 2011 will go down as a great year for the trout of the Upper D. I've never seen such healthy fish, and there was plenty of evidence of all year classes...
