Depends on the situation. On a brookie stream or a stream where I'm otherwise not expecting any big fish, I let it go and don't worry about it. If I'm after big fish, I change right away.

And here's where laziness comes in. Many situations I'm catching typically smaller to medium fish with an outside chance at a big one anytime. I should change right away. I don't. I usually wait until the next fly change or whatever, and do it then.

But to be honest. It's been a LONG time since I broke off on a fish. Years probably. So I'm probably less concerned about this kind of stuff than I should be. It's gonna bite me sometime.
