I believe the issue of them becoming unsustainable is newish...but I was being snarky. Hard to pin it down to one funding issue or another. I'm sure that as our state bureaucracy grows, money gets moved around from "less important" programs to the more important ones, such as paying for SEPTA, state welfare programs, pensions, roads...okay not roads, etc. I'm just not sure how high up the poll the state park system is to most politicians.
