

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Sandy Hook Salt Jam 11/13/11

Re: Sandy Hook Salt Jam 11/13/11

Author: : jayL

Date: : 2011/9/13 16:59:50

URL:

Quote:

gfen wrote:

All BS aside, some of us wouldn't even remotely consider an 8 hour drive. The idea of having a 1.5-2 hour drive is acceptable and a way to do something.

+1. As a veteran of 5 or so trips to erie, I can safely say that it's insane to go there from eastern PA. There's better steelheading at about 2 hours closer in NY.

I've thought about going to the steelhead jams because I enjoy seeing everyone so much, but if I go that far, I may as well go to michigan.

Fast fact: When in erie, you'll be closer to chicago than your home in philly.

If you're up for going, you won't regret attending the erie jam. I've genuinely enjoyed sharing the streams with my friends out that way. That said, the quality of the fishing in erie isn't enough to draw me again.