To belabor Jack's point, see below. By the way, can't tell from this map, but it is at a 4 way. Obviously it's on route 44 which can take you up to route 6 and the Allegheny, or down to Kettle. But there is the E. Fork road which follows the E. Fork to 872, and the W. Br. Road which follows the W. Branch towards Galeton. There's also a road that gets you to 872 farther up the 1st Fork, where the Y is there.
