
Subject: : Swap Forum

Topic: : Scott A3 9ft 9wt

Re: Scott A3 9ft 9wt

Author: : WalnutKing

Date: : 2011/9/14 12:38:08

URL:

Really,

I thought my offer was fair seeing that it has no warranty and can be bought new on ebay for $185 as posted above. Where did you get it from? was it a scott authroized dealer? I am sure you didn't pay retail for it. Like I said if they can be bought for $185-$200 which they clearly can be as posted in the above links, why would you try and sell it for $250 other than to try and profit of guys on here.

Seems like bad business to me. I am sure you have a following that will support you because it seems from what I have read on here that there are groups that stick up for one another like inner city gangs.

Buyers beware, no warranty = you will pay more to fix it when it breaks then it is worth. Why pay $250 then if you break a tip section you will be stuck paying more than you could have bought a new one for.

Straight from Scott:

Is my rod covered by the Scott warranty?

Rods that have been resold, are not registered with Scott within 30 days of purchase, or have a serial number lower than 35,000 will be charged a reasonable fee for repairs.

My rod is not covered by the warranty. What will it cost?

$20.00 Per guide rewrap, ferrule refit, or reel seat repair

$100.00 Per tip or mid section replacement

$175.00 Per butt section replacement

$45.00 For return shipping and handling per rod