

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Cross Fork, Potter County, 9/5/11

Re: Cross Fork, Potter County, 9/5/11

Author: : pcray1231

Date: : 2011/9/14 12:52:37

URL:

Whats better, is that not only does every single one of those have wild fish, most of them also have numerous tributaries that have wild fish. There is probably 50ish wild trout streams within a half hours drive. You've got everything you could want, big water, medium water, small water, stockies, wild brookies, wild browns, etc. Gotta love the northern tier of PA!!!!

BTW, I'd love to go to this, heck, I'd love to see THE JAM hosted in that immediate area. But it's way too far out for me to commit....