Jay, if you are planning to build three rods to start, that set up will add about 33 bucks to the cost of each. It will definitely make things easier to wrap and dry and it won't tie up a saturday to supervise the drying process. In addition, the cork reamers are something that will save time and trouble-- have you ever tried to size the cork inside diameter with sandpaper wrapped around a phillips screwdriver? I built my two graphite rods for under $100 each. They still catch fish and no one has tried to rob me of them streamside and I fish Dunbar Creek a dozen times a year. 😁
