I must be living under a rock! I fish Neshaminy Creek all the time, and only saw this story today:

I know Pennsylvania needs jobs, revenue, and energy, but we need drinking water first. I don't have much time right now, but I'll have to look into how many jobs these drilling operations actually produce, and whether or not there's a more sensible way to produce energy. Fracking seems like a low-tech method, and it's taken a long time to clean up the Delaware River Basin to what I consider just acceptable levels. Making a buck is one thing, but this is just a crude method. Sign me up for the opposition!
