I've been building mini sink tip shooting heads for years. I use Cortland LC-13 lead core material. Loop to loop connection on either end of the mini sink tip. Nail knotting the loops with 10lb mono then coating with 5min epoxy. You can make them in different lengths to get your flies to the desired depth. I make them in 1ft and 2ft lengths. They work perfectly for getting my wet flies down to the right depth. The only thing to remember is slow your casting up these things will load the rod and cast like a rocket. This might save you from purchasing another fly line and chopping it up. Hope this helps.
