
Subject: : Swap Forum

Topic: : WTB: Drift boat

Re: WTB: Drift boat

Author: : wbranch

Date: : 2011/11/15 0:11:17

URL:

How u doing Jdaddy? Ever get to read any of those FF magazines?

I agree with your comment. If you are retired and have the wherewithal to spend on gas and lodging, and can devote at least a month to your trip, it might be worthwhile. I on the other hand do it a little differently; I bought a Creek Company ODC 816 about nine years ago and had it shipped directly to Montana to the outfitter where I stay. Now when I go out for my annual two weeks I have a boat there and in half an hour I'm floating my and it only costs me the modest sum that I give the fellow who manages the operation who graciously stores my boat for me.

We need to hook-up some weekday in 2012 for a float on the main stem.

PS - I also keep a Bucks Bag Bronco up at my cabin for when I don't want to take the Hyde out.

Attach file:

 Trailer.jpg (287.49 KB)

