Your search does not say why it is not safe and exactly who these people are that are reporting it. Is it greenpeace or some other enviro group, which I lump EPA, that says everything is unsafe.

Actually it comes from the Governor of the state of Nevada's Office.

I'm not sure what your point is any more..the rest of your post only supports what my post said...

Remember, I'm not against nuclear power, just the current methods for "storing" spent fuel. If you read the info on the link I provided in an earlier post, the WIPP site (if they'd ever use it), while still not ideal, is much better equipped to handle this waste...
