Its getting a little over my head with the rems and rads thing.

I have no trouble believing that that statement was written with the intention you suggested. It was kind of my point about when you write that we can't increase corn production because the rivers will all die an irreversible death...its a scare tactic...

so anyway...I read that anything over 800 rems is a fatal dose of radiation...whats the diff between a rad and a rem...BTW I found some interesting stories about "radiation treatment gone wrong" along the way...
