Jack- what is your stance? Seeing how it was your poll.

I think we better have nuclear power in China and India or we might not be able to breath.

Did you know that China now imports coal to meet demand.
(and they have coal reserves)

America companies are benefitting greatly from this.

The rail companies have been on a multi-year tear as well shipping it. CSX,BNI,CNI

Actually Jack created the poll for me after I couldn't seem to set it up. (Not that I mind Jack voicing an opinion.)

I think it's the only scaleable way create power without using a non-renewable source. I haven't researched the waste fuel problem as much as I have other aspects of alternative energy. I thought I'd let the discusion play out a bit before I added my comments. BTW my uncle was the general manager for the construction of and initial operation of a nuclear plant here in PA. He was also the Chief Engineer for the power company that owns it and has degrees in electrical and nuclear engineering. I have to give him a call and get his insights on the waste fuel solution.
