Dry Fly Steelhead?

Has anyone had any experience with dries for steelhead in the Erie tribs? I always thought that for the most part the hatchery steelhead in the great lakes won't rise to a dry, only the wild ones in the west will, but in the recent Fly Fisherman magazine there is an article about fishing for steel with dries in the great lakes, specifically the Erie tribs of OH, PA, and NY. I never tied on a dry for chrome, but after reading that article I think I might give it a try.
