I just remembered something funny. Several years ago I was hinting around that I wanted a steelhead rod. Well, my wife started logging into this site, without my knowledge, and asking questions about buying steelhead rods. Of course everyone started giving their two cents even me.

She bought the rod that I was recommending.

Xmas morning I am in a state of shock opening my present. I could not figure out how she knew. She fessed up later in the day.

So give your opinions you might get suprised.
