Let me put it to you this way... The Towanda Creek is put and take. Period. It's not a destination fishery nor does it have a natural reproduction (except, way... way... way up in the headwaters where only the hermits live). No one drives 3 hours out of the way to fish it... You have heard of anglers driving a shit ton of miles to Spring, Penns, LeTort, Salmon River, Elk & Walnut. It's good fishing. The Towanda? It's only good for the stringer crowd in the spring. That takes away from the rednecks keeping the 6" natives in the feeder creeks.

Gas blowouts in our county have happened. Will happen again. That's the price we pay for allowing these rednecks to come up from below the Mason-Dixon line and drill.
