Try an Erie-sistable dryfly. Basically a scaled down deer hair bass bug aka... an Atlantic Salmon Bomber type fly as your "indicator". They will sometimes hit it... when waked. But as the previous posts said... conditions, conditions, conditions must be aligned like the planets... the moon in an retrograde hypotenuse, and such. Consult with the Cosmic Muffin to figure out the planets and stars... then throw some chicken blood in the LE trib as an offering to the Chrome. Then, maybe then... they will hit a dry.
