In addition to the incredible diversity and abundance of macros in the Mannatawy, it has a very large % of non-posted, open water. It is relatively uncrowded and you can always find water to yourself. It is stocked heavily in the main section by PFBC and gets a lot of supplemental stocking from local clubs. Stay away from those areas and you find a lot of wild fish and open water.

If you really want to learn a lot about many of the SE PA watersheds check this out:

This will make peoples head asplode but I kind of look at the Manny like a little Penns. Huge macro counts, diversity, gets warm in the Summer, blows out quickly (should have saw it during Irene and Lee!).

Plus it has Union Jacks and the Tiki Bar on it. You can sit streamside and pound SOLID beer while waiting for risers. Been there, done that.
